ELS MANAGER'S TELECON MAY 2006 6/1/06

On May 4, the NSCORT conducted an all-center workshop addressing the different lessons learned during the three and a half year run of the Center. One action item from that workshop is to produce a white paper reflecting those lessons learned.

On May 9 through 10, Cary Mitchell served as a Special Awards Judge for the Intel – sponsored Science and Engineering Fair in Indianapolis. This annual event acknowledges and motivates science and engineering career aspirations in middle and high school students.

On May 15 through 17, Kimberly Jones from Howard University reported the results of her work on biofouling of RO nanofiltration membranes at a conference of the North American Membrane Society in Chicago.

On May 24 and 25, Cary Mitchell served as the NSCORT representative to the annual review of the Center for Food and Environmental Systems for Human Exploration and Development of Space at Tuskegee University.
